"NIL PALSI AUDEAM. NIL VERI NON AUDEAM DICERE". (Cicero.)

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18th, 1862.

The state of the Interior.

The news from the Interior is of the gloomiest nature, in many parts of Santa Fé, bands of gauchos are prowling about, stealing cattle, and too often murdering the owners. It appears that the authorities are unable to do anything owing to the present uncertain state of things. The political arguments held in the country parts are ludicrous in the extreme: one day it is, that the Portenños have turned General Mitre and Congress out of the town, bag and baggage, and fixed the Villa Mercedes as capital; whilst others assert that now it is agreed on there is to be no Capital at all, and that Congress and President are to take all the principal towns in the Republic in rotation, each remain 6 months in each. The gaucho politician feels a je ne sais quoi that there is something wrong, and reflects, with a sigh, on his unhappy country: the hosts of the war in the United States and the disunion in Buenos Ayres; he sees all the necessaries of life becoming dearer and dearer, and himself and family reduced to poverty, if not to mendicity, in a country which he proudly calls his own, and which has been so often repented in his ear as the richest on the earth.

What has been the history of those unfortunate men, who are now prowling about the provinces, and committing terrible crimes in broad day light? Have they been always robbers and murderers? We answer, no. Some years ago they might have been seen caring their little stock, and cultivating a plot of maize, honestly and industriously supporting their families: the citations and enrolments came: to escape becoming a soldier they must give up home, family and all, and fly their native land. What may we ask, are the feelings of that unhappy man, as he mounts his horse and bids adieu to all that he holds dear on earth? What moral restraint is left to withold the murderous knife or stay his career in crime: his family he has forgotten, his country he has fled, he betakes himself to robbing to, to cut a miserable existence; he is led on from one crime to another, until at last he stops at nothing, and meeting with others similarly situated as himself; he joins with them the next thing we hear is a revolution."

Can any one deny the truth of this picture? Can any one say that we have exaggerated it one iota? Who is it that cries out against the unhappy gauchos? Rather let them cry out against the men whom God has placed in a more elevated position in society, and who, by their acts, are the cause of all these misfortunes. We are at peace now, but if we are, is it not because certain parties are devoid of resources for creating war? The whole condition of society in this country is in such a state, as to draw tears of blood from the philanthropist. Measures have been introduced by the Government, in the hope of permanently establishing peace. We all know the fate that awaited with: shallow, hollow reasons have been offered for the rejection of these measures, and it is pretentiously asserted that we cannot go on without a double legislature in this city. Who is he that cannot see, at one glance, that this multiplicity of legislatures will lead to open ruptures every six months. Has not the experience of the past already justified us in the assertion, or can it be possible that men will be so blind to their own interests, and the welfare of their unhappy country, that they will wilfully, and for the sake of "amor propio," vote against their own convictions, and plunge us again into a civil war.

Editor's table.

The "Nacion Argentina" has now 2,000 subscribers. If anything were wanting to prove the popularity of the capital question amongst reading men, there can exist no doubt on the subject now. Never has there been a newspaper started with such bright prospects, and for the dignity of style and perspicuity of expression, we commend this paper to all: the article which was in yesterday's "Nacion", entitled "we are a nation or a Province," is decidedly the best yet written on this subject, and emanates from no mean pen. We do downright blindness of the authorities, in opposing a measure which has for its object the transformation of this province into a great and mighty nation, can only be accounted for when we reflect that a certain paper is their organ.

The Indians have made another inroad upon us, and, according to Colonel Vedia's report, swept off 150 mares.

The Chamber of Deputies and Incienda chair seem to be hard to fill People, after a while, will get so accustomed to do without a cel lector, that by and bye, if the Government wants to put a man in office, they probably meet with as much opposition as on the capital question. As for the finance department, we predict the most inextricable confusion, if some decisive steps are not done to regulate the receipts and expenses of the nation (not the province). Somebody should be at the head of this department, or assuredly a deficit will occur in the national exchequer, which nobody will be responsible for.

We publish, in another column, the prospectus of the Chascomus Railway Company. We have every confidence that it will be extended through, although we have no doubt whatever exist that, had there been less delay, the Buenos Ayres Northern would not have stolen a march on them, and got itself introduced at once into the Stock Exchange at a higher premium.

We notice the resignation of Dr. Montes de Oca, who evidently regards the capital question as finally settled.

The Progresso hall last night, in commemoration of the Battle of Pavon, was quite a splendid affair. Everything passed of "couleur de Rose".

The Italian Opera Co, with our gifted country woman, Miss Altieri returns to town on Monday next, from their Oriental trip, which we learn has paid well.

The government, we read in the "Nacional", has subscribed for 200 copies of the new paper called Nacion Argentina". We hope this is no public money could not have been spared from its support-ing a journal which manfully speaks the truth the whole truth & nothing but the truth.

Good Faith versus Humbug.

The "Tribuna" having lost so many English, French and Argentine subscribers by its wrongful conduct, has fallen back for comfort upon an old claim on public favor. Unfortunately, strong opinions on Garibaldi attorded our malevolent colleague a plausible pretext for propagating the idea that we had cast a wanton slur upon the Italian people. We have lived too long in Italy not to become convinced of the cordiality of all efforts in favor of Italian Unity, but we have also much profound sympathy for the city of the Cesars and the Popes, the land of song, the birthplace of the fine arts, the mother of so many distinguished men, and cradle of Christianity, that our opinions should never have found utterance if we had remembered at the time, that they would pain or hurt the feelings of those who have the honor to represent that any guarantee thereon, unless they engage the company to construct them, or to extend the line to Dolores, in order that the government guarantee seven per cent on the cost of those works.

5. The government to have the right of purchasing the line on payment of 20 per cent. profit on its original cost.

6. All articles for the construction and use of the railway to be admitted free at duty for the term of 40 years.

7. The railway and all property belonging thereto to be exempted from any contribution or tax for the same period.

8. The guarantee to be made up and paid at the end of each year.

The line, which is about 75 miles in length, has been carefully surveyed during the present year by English engineers, under the direction of Mr. Thomas Bush, C. E.

A guaranteed contract has been made with Messrs. Peto and Betts for the construction of the line, including stations, workshops, and par bases of land, and also the provisions of a sufficient amount of suitable rolling stock The contract provides for the completion of the works in accordance in every respect with the provisions of the concession. An arrangement has been made with Mr. Rumball by which he undertakes all the engineering expenses for a fixed sum, and the transfer of the concession, including all preliminary expenses up to the formation of the Company, has been agreed upon for a fixed sum

Provision has been made for the payment of 6 per cent. interest during the construction of the works. The remainder of the capital will amply provide for the expenses attending the formation of the Company, and for the management during construction.

The line of railway will be shortly with an quote existing and passing pla The part, however, between the city of Buenos Ayres and the entuni of Barracas, about two miles in distance, will be double, in order to provide for the great passenger traffic which must follow.

The city of Buenos Ayres, with it suburbs, has a population of 200,000 inhabitants, and is practically the centre from whence all the Argentine provinces derive their supplies of foreign goods. The productions which come down to the city consist of wool, hides and skins, grain, hair, tallow.

Barracas is the locality of all the great meatsalting and killing establishments. Chascomus is one of the most considerable towns of Buenos Ayres, and the traffic throughout the district, along the whole line of railway, must largely increase.

At present there are no substantial roads through the country. The difficulties of transport and the delays of bringing produce to market are immenses, especially in the rainy season, when the journey is almost impracticable, and the consequent charges enormous. An illustration of this may be found in the fact that three or four years ago, when wheat was at a very high price in the city of Buenos Ayres, it was found less costly to send it empty to Chili than to transport it by oxen a distance in the interior of only 200 miles, where there was a superabundance.

The general rate of transport is usually reckoned per ton per mile, and a cart drawn by ten oxen, and conveying two tons, occupies some four days in the journey, a season when, in the winter the journey occupi s at times as much as three weeks between Buenos Ayres and Chascomus.

The following extract from the message of the President of Government of Buenos Ayres regr t s the working of the Western Line, such it railway running from the city to Moron, a distance of twenty-four miles, shows, notwithstanding a very inefficient working at 6k, how the area tages of railway transit are appreciated and made use of by the people. His Excellency stated that from April, 1861, to March, 1862, the number of passengers conveyed was 401,621, reducing 2,375,830 kilos, and the number of cart i merchandise conveyed during the same period amounted to 20,794, reducing 599,276 kilos. From offal a seconds just received, the line during the present year shows a result of 10 3/4 per annum upon a capital of £200,000.

In an illustration of the rapid increase in which trade has grown in Buenos Ayres, it will suffice to state that off, in the year 1851 the total tonnage of army towards Richmond has consequently ceased entering the River Plate, considerable distinction, as it was only amounted to 826, while in 1861 given out that McClellan would be atthe tonnage had increased 10,040, and tacked in his present position.

The Buenos Ayres Great Southern Railway Company

Prospectus

This Company is formed for the purpose of constructing and working a railway from the city of Buenos Ayres to Chascomus, under a concession dated 11th of June, 1862, granted by the government of Buenos Ayres to Mr. Edward Lumb.

Some of the principal conditions of the concession (a translation of which can be inspected at the office of the solicitors) are as follows:

1. It secures a guarantee of 7 per cent for the term of 40 years from the Buenos Ayres government on the expenditure not exceeding £10,000 per mile. The line is to be completed in sections, and the guarantee takes effect from the opening of each section to the public. The agreement to be ratified by the legislature of subsequent sessions.

2. The line must be commenced within 18 months from 11th of June, 1862, and completed in four years from its commencement.

3. The government lands required for construction of the line, stations, &c., are ceded free to the Company.

4. A right is granted to the Company to construct any branches, but the government are not bound to pay

The state of the Confederates

The Baltimore American has the following:—We learn from Mr. William Airey, of this city, who escaped from the Richmond on Tuesday last, that the rebel troops in and around the city, prior to the recent battles were reckoned at from 217,000 to 300,000. Large reinforcements from the direction of Petersburg had been coming for the past ten days and nights, which were said to be from the coast, but our informant could not ascertain whether any portion of them were of Beauregarde's army. They arrived by railroad, and were marching during the night towards Hanover Court-house. General Beauregard had been in Richmond several weeks, suffering from a severe attack of fever and was at the Spotswood house, confined to his room, when Mr. Airey left. Generals M'Call and Reynolds are neither of them wounded. After remaining a day at the Spotswood house they were taken to the officers' prison. A gunboat, on the plan of the Merrimac, though much smaller, is rapidly approaching completion at Richmond, though great difficulty is experienced in obtaining iron for the armour. The obstructions in the James River were considerably weakened by the recent freshets. One of the sunken vessels had so swung around that the Teaser was able to pass through, and was soon afterwards captured. Fort Darling has been greatly strengthened, and the batteries are mounted. A whole division of the army had crossed the James River on a pontoon bridge, and were reinforcing Provisions—General Pannaco has received instructions from the Government to prosecute the enlargement of the Chaco frontier.

Invasion—A party of Indians have entered the Western frontier and stolen about 1500 head of cattle. The invasion and flight only occupied 4 hours.

Resignation—Don Lonlodi Montes de Oca, Deputy to the Provincial Legislature has presented his resignation of that post.

Rio Negro.—Banda Oriental. A new steamer the "Correo" has been placed on the line between the Yaguari and Uruguay.

Condemned Murderer—Murderer of Cudsandant Rodriguez has been sentenced to death by the superior Tribunal of Justice.

ETRANGER.

Les correspondances de la Reunion sont du 11 juin. Elles nous font savoir l'excellentes nouvelles de Madagascar, où le roi fait de grandes concessions du terre aux europ'ens, et paraît de plus en plus décidé à tirer profit pour lui même et à faire profiter le commerce général des fumeuses richesses de la grande île.

Les tendances du nouveau gouvernement en faveur de l'Europe sont très nécessaire. Il avait même promulgué une loi pour rendre public quelques actes sujets, sous peine d'un homde, le contrôle europ'en. Depuis il s'est borné à conseiller l'adoption de ce coutume sans infliger de p nalit à ceux qui ne voudraient pas le porter.

Au départ du courrier, on n'avait pas encore reçu, à la Réunion, la nouvelle de la mort de l'ancien prétendan Ramhavolam, cousin-germain du roi. Cette mort est un gage de sécurité pour le pays. Le d funt était, en effet, très hostile à la civilisation, très exclusif au point de vue malg che, et s'il avait triomphé à ses prétentions qui fomentait sans cesse des complications encore si graves, eut amassinés, e nme autrefois, un lieu dètre mis par ces, comme ils le sont aujourd'hui dans leurs personnes et dans leurs biens.

Il est regrettable qu'on n'ait pas tiré meilleur parti, en France, des dispositions manifestées par Ramada II. Cependant l'occupation partielle de Madag scar, ou tout au moins Pétablissement d'un poste de ravitaillement et de relache, est d'autant plus indispensable que les navires, en retour de Pextrême orient, ne trouvent plus à Ile de Ioit ainsi que les anciens paquebots dans ces mers lointaines, les ro-courir ces dont ils ont souvent besoin en cours de campagne.

Depuis la guerre de Chine et l'occupation de la Cochinchine par nos troupes, de nombreux navires sarrêtent à Saint-Denis, où ils ne trouvent ni charbon, ni vivres, ni moyens de radoub Ainsi, la Sibylle, l'Archimède, le Rhin et le Primauguet, la Fregate, ont successivement passé à la R union pour se ravitailler mais après un ep s pour, pendant lequel il ne leur a pas jour possible de s'approvisionner des objets les plus indispensables ils ont lui une sorte de peur; et puis il songeait aussi, sans savoir pourquoi, et avec cette obstination machinale de la rêverie, à un forgat — quand Basque avait coutume de nommer dans le cabaret, il la nommait Jacques, et il avait pour habitude de dire que par une seule bretelle de cuir on reconnaissait un forçat. Il se demandait pourquoi tant de gens portaient une seule bretelle de cuir.

Il demeurait dans cette absence, et y fut peut-être resté infiniment jusqu'au lever du jour, si Thenardier n'eût rouvert sa porte. Il sortit et revint peu de temps après. Il avait mis ses souliers dans sa poche, et chaussé ses bottes. Il tenait encore un marteau à la main. Il posa le marteau sur la table, et dit à sa femme:

— Je vais à la ville. Il faut que j'aille tout de suite à Montfermeil.

Il donna à sa femme, qui le regardait avec stupeur, quelques explications sur cette résolution subite, qu'il motiva par la nécessité de faire quelques démarches relativement à la location de son auberge, et de toucher quelques petites sommes dues à lui pour des locations antérieures. Il ajouta qu'il serait de retour le soir même ou le lendemain matin, et se mit en route dans la direction de Montfermeil.

Arrivé à quelque distance du village, il s'arrêta dans un bouquet de bois, attendit qu'il fût presque nuit, et rentra dans Montfermeil par le côté opposé à celui par lequel il en était sorti. Il alla droit à la maison isolée qu'il connaissait, et qui était située, comme on sait, à l'extrémité du village. Il était facile de voir que cette maison était habitée par des gens qui ne voulaient pas être vus. Les volets de tous les étages étaient fermés, même ceux des mansardes. Une seule fenêtre était éclairée au rez-de-chaussée. Il s'approcha de cette fenêtre, et regarda à travers le trou d'une serrure. Eponine et Azelma étaient seules dans la salle. Elles soupaient. Elles étaient assises à une table de bois blanc, sur laquelle était une chandelle. Azelma était tournée du côté de la porte. Eponine, qui était de profil, avait les coudes sur la table, et sa tête dans ses mains. Elle était pensive. Son père la voyait très distinctement. Azelma était gaie. Elle mangeait. Elle avait devant elle quelques morceaux de viande et un peu de vin. Le visage de Thenardier, éclairé par la chandelle, était sinistre. Il était livide. Il avait cette pâleur particulière qui, chez les hommes de cette nature, se mêle à la rougeur de l'ivresse. Il avait bu. Il avait aussi sans doute, pendant qu'il était seul dans son cabaret, fait quelque chose qui l'avait effrayé lui-même, car il avait oublié de remettre son gilet. Il était en bras de chemise. Il avait sur la tête un bonnet de coton noir qu'il avait pris dans la chambre de sa femme, et qui descendait presque jusqu'à ses sourcils. Il avait laissé son marteau sur la table, mais il tenait à la main un gourdin noueux. Il était évident qu'il se parlait à lui-même, et qu'il se répétait ce qu'il venait de faire, ou ce qu'il allait faire. Il était impossible de rien voir de plus hideux et de plus formidable. Il était le spectre rouge rendu visible par l'ivresse, et le spectre noir rendu visible par le crime.

Il était impossible de deviner, à la vue de cet homme, quelle était la nature de ses pensées, mais il était manifeste qu'elles étaient mauvaises.

Ainsi, chose étrange, et qui ne se voit que trop souvent, cette fille, qui avait été sauvée par un acte de pitié, était tombée sous l'influence de ces deux hommes, dont l'un avait été sauvé par elle, et dont l'autre avait été sauvé par un autre. Le bienfait, qui devait être utile à tous les deux, avait été perdu pour celui-ci, et tourné à mal pour celui-là. Marius ignorait ce qu'il devait à Jean Valjean, et Jean Valjean ignorait ce qu'il devait à Thenardier. Marius, qui avait tout le courage, n'avait pas songé à s'informer de la chose la plus importante pour lui, et Jean Valjean, qui avait tout oublié, excepté le devoir, avait oublié cette chose importante aussi. Thenardier, qui n'avait rien fait pour Jean Valjean, et qui avait tout fait contre Marius, connaissait parfaitement le nom de Marius, et savait que Marius était riche, et Jean Valjean, qui avait tout fait pour Marius, ignorait jusqu'au nom de Thenardier. Ce nom, Marius l'avait vu écrit sur la lettre de Jean Valjean, mais il l'avait oublié. Thenardier, qui ne savait rien, savait tout. Il était le seul dans cette sombre affaire qui eût la double vue du crime. Il était le seul qui vît clair dans cette ténèbre, où quatre hommes, quatre destinées, étaient amassées et confondues, et où il allait bondir.

Il était là, pensif, sinistre, sondant l'avenir, mêlant à ses projets, à ses espérances, à ses haines, à ses rancunes, à ses craintes, à ses terreurs, à ses colères, à ses désespoirs, à ses misères, à ses ressources, à ses ruses, à ses instincts, à ses habitudes, à ses vices, à ses vols, à ses crimes, à ses souvenirs, à ses ténèbres, à ses abîmes, à ses haillons, à ses blessures, à ses chaînes, à ses poings, à ses genoux, à ses mâchoires, à ses cheveux, à ses griffes, à ses ongles, à ses rides, à ses cicatrices, à ses oreilles, à ses yeux, à ses entrailles, à ses ulcères, à ses gouffres, à ses bassesses, à ses grandeurs
